Indoor Pool Gains Another Lap

by Marcie Birk

At its October 13 meeting, the Greenbelt City Council approved the preliminary design of the proposed indoor swimming pool and directed the architect to proceed with preparing final plans. Council also approved the Commerce Center III traffic mitigation plan and authorized an increased service charge for garbage and trash collection.

Before approving the indoor pool design, council discussed where funds for the pool would come from. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld said Greenbelt currently has $6 million from its bond issue, $2 million of which would be used for the pool.

City Manager James K. Giese said the pool would cost about $3 million, not including $200,000 for renovation of the outdoor bath house. The city is planning on borrowing an additional $1 million, which would bring the total funds available for the pool to $3 million. Giese said the city should stay within budget if other funding sources are used to renovate the bathhouse.

Keith Chernikoff, representing the Park and Recreation Advisory Board, told council that renovation of the bathhouse was PRAB's lowest priority item and he recommended not spending the money to renovate it. Ruth Kastner, resident of Greenbelt, said $200,000 seemed like a lot of money to renovate the bathhouse.

Giese said the plan called for the bathhouse to be turned into a support area for the indoor pool, which would be used as a year-round exercise facility. He said the bathhouse was originally intended only for summer use and is not heated. Because of the poor condition of the building, renovation would be fairly extensive.

Giese noted that the building requires renovation to be used and said its condition was becoming a question of safety. He recommended that if renovation of the building was not approved, it be torn down.

Councilmember Thomas X. White said the building was one of the original structures in Greenbelt and has historical significance. He supported its renovation.

Council agreed to leave renovation of the bathhouse as part of the architectural plan.

The approved plan calls for moving the indoor swimming pool 20 feet to the east of the originally selected site to allow more grass area next to the outdoor pool and to line the building up with the Roosevelt Center buildings.

Council also gave the architect instructions to include a nine-foot depth as part of the main pool, a movable bridge connection between the main pool and the recreation pool and a zero-bottom slope into the main pool.

Safety Questions

Citizens raised some questions regarding the safety of the zero-bottom slope. Doug Sutherland said the use of ladders and handrails instead of the slope would reduce the chance of someone's slipping on the slope into the pool.

James Giese said handrails and steps are part of the plan for the recreation pool, along with the zero-bottom slope. Giese said he spoke to George Rogala, manager of the outdoor pool, who said the zero bottom slope only occasionally gets slippery and then from suntan lotion. Rogala plans to install non-skid strips to combat this problem.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld said suntan lotion would probably not present a hazard at the indoor pool, but recommended the installation of non-skid strips at the indoor rec. pool.

Kastner asked if any funds set aside for parklands will be used to fund the pool.

Weidenfeld said $2 million will be left for parklands as the council promised. White said, "The council is committed to $2 million being used for the parklands."

Traffic Mitigation

The traffic mitigation plan for Commerce Center III was presented by attorney Richard Reed, of Fossett and Brugger and representative for the Midland Companies. The plan attempts to make sure that the traffic generated by the new development is equal to the projected traffic impact of the approved 1985 preliminary plan.

The developer met with city staff prior to Thursday night's meeting and came up with a plan to mitigate traffic conditions if Commerce Center III fails a traffic generation test. The test would be conducted one

HI pension plan. A report from the Finance Committee endorsed "equal pay and benefits to all employees . . ." and, noting that few employees participate in the current retirement plan, recommended that the board should "consider alternatives that would permit the current employees to keep their plan and provide the rest of the employees with a plan."

The budget will be presented to the board for the second time on Oct. 27. Presentation to the members is planned at a hearing on Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers. The meeting will not be telecast.

Other Topics

The board took no action on a petition from members in the 16 Court of Ridge requesting that reserved parking be replaced by the prior "restricted" parking. The majority of the court had signed the petition but a significant number of court residents were opposed. Director Alan Freas noted that the parking policy was adopted to ensure that each unit had one reserved space and that he was "not inclined to change (the policy) if there are dissenting members in the court." Director Andrea Haslinger noted that the vote was

Proposed 1989 GHI Budget Calls for 5.8% Fee Increase

by Mavis Fletcher

The 1989 budget for Greenbelt Homes, Inc. was presented by General Manager Ron Colton to the GHI board of directors at its October 13 meeting. The budget as proposed totals $5,417,466, up about $300,000 from 1988.

Colton noted that increases in trash collection charges and expected increases in taxes account for 46% of the budget increase. He said that much of the remainder is "investment in buildings which will pay dividends in the future."

Colton handed out a long list of major replacement and improvement programs which are currently being funded on a pay-as-you-go basis. The list, which was projected through 1995, is longest for 1989 and 1990. After that many of the programs will be completed or will be funded by reserves which were set up last year. After the reserve funds have built up, the pressure on the members' charges as the source of the funds for the pay-as-you-go program of maintenance will presumably be lessened.

Director Nancy Hutchins raised the question whether these

Increased Charges

As presented, the proposed budget foresees an overall 9.4% operating increase with an average increase in members' charges of 5.48%. Director Chuck Hess, noting a bylaws limitation of 10% operating increases in any one year, warned that the board, which usually adds to the budget, would only have about $17,000 leeway this year before bumping into the 10% limit.

The budget as presented allows for a four percent cost-of-living increase for employees. The board and management also discussed possibly changing the G-

When the registration books closed on October 12, Democrats chalked up 59% of the city's 8,907 registered voters while Republicans collected 27% and unaffiliated (independents) 14%. Since the 1984 Presidential election, Republicans increased their share by three percentage points and Democrats sustained a loss of two percentage points.

While the total number of eligible voters in the city's four precincts was down by 19% (10,973 in 1984; 8,907 today), the county sustained a minimal three percent loss since 1984 (210,703 in 1984; 200,500 today).

The ratio of registered Democrats versus Republicans in the county is 3.2 to 1. In Greenbelt the ratio is 2.2 to 1 favoring the Democrats. In 1984, the ratio was 2.5 to 1 and in 1980 the Democrats had a 3 to 1 edge.

Since the March 8 Super Tuesday primary, the city gained 1,610 registrants: 717 Democrats, 613 Republicans and 280 unaffiliated. The county added a total of 24,389 new voters to its rolls—

Settlement occurred Oct. 21 on the purchase of Parcel 2 from Reiner, Lerner, Ammerman Trustees for the purchase price of $360,000. Parcel 2 is the 10-acre piece of land located south of Hamilton Place, north of Gardenerway, and west of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

On Oct. 20, the County Planning Board approved site and landscape plans for the Commerce Center III, the preliminary plan of subdivision for Greenbelt Park (Magnolia Farms tract) and a six-month departure from design standards for the Beltway Plaza. The Planning Board agreed to this departure after the developer agreed to provide the city with a $25,000 landscaping bond. This bond is to ensure that the developer will undertake needed landscaping improvements.

13,367 Democrats; 8,021 Republicans; 2,819 unaffiliated and 182 Libertarians.

Making Halloween Safer

Halloween is a festive and fun time of the year for kids. Pfc. David Buerger of the Greenbelt Police Department warns, "it is important to remember that Halloween is not what it used to be. There are people out there that are trying to intentionally hurt our children."

Here are some precautions Buerger recommends to make this Halloween safer: Make sure children are accompanied by an adult or a responsible teenager when they go door-to-door; instruct children never to eat anything until they are home and the treats have been checked; cut and wash fruits before eating; throw away unwrapped treats; check the wrappers of commercial candies for signs of tampering and call the police at 474-7200 if any look suspicious; make sure children's costumes fit and that they can see well; tell children to stay in their neighborhood on well-lighted streets; since children will be out after dark, make sure they carry a flashlight; teach children to use the sidewalks, or if there are no sidewalks, instruct them to walk on the left side of the street; know which friends children will be with and which route they are taking; and lastly, leave your porch light on or tie a white hankerchief on your apartment door so children will know it's okay to visit your home.

A Fun Night

by Yoni Siegel

On Saturday night (Oct. 22), members of the Committee to Save the Green Belt led about 100 Halloween-spirited Greenbelters through the woods of Parcel 1, which were filled with a glowing array of flickering pumpkins. Lurking in the moonlit shadows, the Halloweeners were greeted by some friendly creatures of the night—werewolf, goatman, and a high-flying ghost. After the tour, chilled bones were warmed by sipping hot chocolate and munching on chewy treats. It was a fun night for Halloween lovers of all ages, venturing through the last remaining patch of the green belt.

Urges "Yes" Vote

To the Editor:

On September 19 our city council unanimously passed a resolution supporting a yes vote on the gun control measure which will be on the November ballot. Joseph Isaacs who put forward the resolution, Mayor Weidenfeld, and the other members of council deserve much praise for taking such a strong stand in the face of much opposition from the gun industry, hunters and those that believe guns offer protection.

In 1969 the Greenbelt Committee for a Responsible Firearms Policy campaigned for a referendum on gun control that was on the ballot that September. Charles T. McDonald, the late former city manager, chaired the committee; Albert Herling was the chief spokesperson and I was the main organizer. Several leaflets were produced and there was one large mailing.

A half-page ad appeared in the News Review that included an anti-gun quotation from J. Edgar Hoover. It was signed by 71 Greenbelters, at least 10 of whom are now deceased. The Washington Post had an editorial titled "The Guns of Greenbelt." Opponents of gun control put out one piece of literature.

The 1969 referendum was passed by the Greenbelt voters by 64% which was almost two to one. The statewide vote this year is expected to be quite close because the gun lobby is spending about $4 million which is 10 times what gun opponents are raising. If Greenbelters repeat the 64% vote it will help approve the referendum. Those of us who want to stop crime and prevent gun accidents must remember to vote yes on question 3 on November 8.

Bob Auerbach

Ironies Abound

To the Editor:

I noted the extensive space devoted to Chief Craze's guest editorial (October 20) concerning the so-called "gun ban." Though I do not doubt his integrity in reporting what the law says, or necessarily disagree with his point of view, I still believe it would be in the public interest if your newspaper would go one step further and publish the actual text of the law on which we citizens are supposed to vote this November 8. I have several friends in the NRA who complain that newspapers have carried many stories about what the law says, but never seem to get around to printing the text. In fairness to this point of view, please print the text of the law so we can see what all the talk is about for themselves.

Concerning the environmental issues in the stories on page one and elsewhere of the same issue, I find it ironic that in our community, ravaged by development, where we have been hearing many voices crying out over the proposed further bulldozing of our green belt, that apparently no one has stood in defense of our wetlands (Schrom Hills park and proposed site of Metro service yard) save representatives of EPA and the Army Corps of Engineers. Why is this? The irony is compounded when one realizes these agencies are of the same beloved government which has knowingly allowed, in the name of "national security," the proliferation of a nightmare of radioactive pollution at our national bomb factories which we are only now hearing about.

On this beautiful fall day with the election coming up, I am reminded of the famous cartoon line, "I has seen the enemy, and he is us!"

Thanks for a fine issue.

Michael R. Travis

Editor's Note: For space reasons we are unable to print the text of the law. We think Greenbelt Police Chief James Craze provided an excellent summary.

In Response

To the Editor:

We respond to reactions to our letter in which we explained the importance of the city obtaining additional funding through the issuance of bonds rather than through borrowing under Section 59 of the City Charter.

Mr. Sutherland writes that "incomplete or inaccurate facts" have been presented. While it is not clear whether he refers to our letter or to another, we want to ensure that our readers do not reach incorrect conclusions. For accuracy (we) carefully checked all figures in our letter before publication. As for incompleteness: if anybody feels we have left out pertinent information or that additional clarification is needed, please contact us.

(In response to Mr. Goldberg) we want to stress that we did not urge a referendum on the allocation of additional funds to construct the indoor swimming pool. We urge a referendum to approve the sale of more general obligation bonds needed to finance the $3.5 million the city is short in doing the bond issue projects.

We agree fully that our bi-annual elections are a very important instrument in implementing local democracy. But they do not take the place of citizen's referendums on bond issues. And yes, using an obscure section in the Charter may be legally correct, but is it advisable? The Charter was written long ago, and this section was never meant to cover such large amounts of money.

Come the 1989 election, we may be able to exercise our political leverage, but what good will that do us when the city has in the meantime committed itself to a (large) total debt (service)? We are not only dealing with the question of how much money to borrow, but also how much to pay for the money we borrow. When borrowing under Section 59 we may have to pay as much as $1.45 for every dollar we will have to pay when issuing bonds! For only when issuing bonds, approved by all citizens, is the full faith and credit of the city pledged, lowering the interest costs considerably.

Voters, what is your preference?

Betty Maffay, Member of Council, 1969-1973

Plea for Candy Cane City

To the Editor:

I am one parent who used Candy Cane City. It will be missed very much by the many children who live in the apartments nearby, the parents waiting for doctors' appointments or taking a break (during) shopping.

The most unappealing aspect of the park is not the litter but the pollution, mainly by auto anti-freeze in the nearby creek. The creek bed is filled with broken glass and cans from years of partying all along Braden Field. The largest amount of littering is on Friday and Saturday nights when there are baseball games. Then there are the horseshoe players that often drink and play right in front of the playground. Despite the signs that prohibit drinking I have seen too many (beer cans) propped against the nearest tree and jammed into the nearby trash cans. Then there are the little clearings in the woods that seem to attract Friday and Saturday night revelers, not to speak of the tailgate parties in the parking lot. I do wish the cans and bottles could make it to the trash cans.

I stopped there this morning with my kids and despite the litter it is still a very nice playlot. So many playgrounds are surfaced with dangerous asphalt or are out in the hot sun without a tree. Others seem geared to older kids. Candy Cane City is one of my favorites still. The tall maples are turning colors now, my daughter climbed the little tree in front. She has chased many a squirrel up the trees or a friendly dog around the field. After a big rain, when the stream pollution has been flushed out we have watched the stream bubble past the rocks and hopped from side to side. We have dragged lots of bottles out and thrown lots of pebbles in. My kids will remember well how tall those trees are.

To the Editor:

As coach, I was offended by Bill Rashkin's misleading implications that the Greenbelt Swim Team has been greedy and self-serving in its use of pool time. Actually, the swim team has worked with the Recreation Department to provide a comprehensive program that allows and encourages maximum use of the pool by all members of the community.

Team practice has been restricted to the early morning hours — before most rational people have begun to think about the reality of the approaching day. While this has allowed for a comprehensive lesson program, popular senior citizen activities and general recreational swimming, it has limited swim team opportunities to those who have the self-discipline to brave the chilly morning waters while their friends are home cuddled in bed.

We have always welcomed adults to share our early morning water time. We do need the pool for swim meets for two or three Saturday mornings each summer. We hope that the value of our swim team program is great enough to justify these six to nine hours lost from general community use. (The community is, of course, always welcome to come cheer on Greenbelt's committed youth during these events.)

We also hope that our record will serve to clear us from any doubts about our willingness to cooperate with all interested groups during the scheduling of Greenbelt's indoor pool time.

Busing a Threat?

To the Editor:

Once again (still?) there is talk of not renovating Greenbelt Center Elementary School but abandoning it, at least as a school. Greenbelt never seems to miss an opportunity to consider giving up some key element of the "plan." In Greenbelt Center, we have a school adjacent to a public library, a youth center, a park (with a lake), and a vibrant city center.

I get the impression that the school board is trying to threaten us with busing our kids to Bladensburg to get us to approve abandoning the Center School. I, for one, would feel indignant if my children had to miss two years of a local, central school. I personally think it is possible to renovate the school while it is being used and that we should all clamor for this strategy to be implemented. Even if this is not to be, however, two years of inconvenience would be a relatively minor price to pay for a continuance of a sensible and wise plan that can remain a valuable beginning for 50 more years of our children's education.

 - () C. Throw it away.
2. One of the treats you were given has something "suspicious" sticking out of it. Your mom should:
 - () A. Bite into it to see what it is.
 - () Call the police.
 - () C. Put it in the refrigerator.
 - () D. Scream.
3. The safest way to go trick-or-treating is:
 - () A. Alone
 - () B. Late at night.
 - () C. On roller skates.

1. C. Throw it away. McGruff says, things hidden inside.
2. B. Call the police. They can help keep you and other kids in your neighborhood safe.
3. D. With an adult you trust. Try to go out in daylight. If you go out after dark, wear a light costume and carry a flashlight.
4. B. In a neighborhood you know. It's safer to accept treats from people you know.

TAKE A BITE OUT OF CRIME

Council Agrees to Mitigation Plans

(Continued from page one) year from the time that Smith-Ewing lot 3 (Commerce Center III) is 90% occupied. If the test shows even one car trip over the limit, the city could tax Smith-Ewing Lot 2 for a pre-determined amount and use that money to lessen the impact of additional traffic.

The Midland Companies would bear the cost of one of three options. The three options include a third left-turn lane from Hanover Parkway to Greenbelt Road, a traffic light at Glen Ora Drive and Hanover Parkway or a $62,500 capital expenditure to be determined by the city.

City Planning and Development Coordinator Celia Wilson said the staff considered several options and that the three proposed seemed the most feasible. She said the $62,500 was identified because that is the maximum cost of the first two options, which now seem the most viable.

Questions were raised concerning the plan's options. Councilmember Joseph Isaacs pointed out that getting a third left-turn lane onto Greenbelt Road might not be possible because it is a state road.

James Foy of Hunting Ridge said he liked the mitigation plan but reminded council that there is a plan to move the entrance ramp for the Baltimore-Washington Parkway closer to Hanover Parkway. He pointed out that the third left-turn lane might not be an option.

White questioned whether a light at Glen Ora Drive would cause a queuing problem because of its proximity to Greenway Center.

Another concern was that the plan had not been looked at by the city's Advisory Planning Board. Isaacs expressed concern that the first two options did not seem viable, and yet that was what the monetary sum of the third option was based on. He felt the matter had not been looked into thoroughly by staff and did not support the motion.

White also did not support the motion because, he said, "In my view, the best mitigation plan is one that would have kept the original covenants intact."

Weidenfeld said, "I will support the motion because Midland has made a bona fide effort to keep within the traffic constraints - I yield to staff's expertise."

SHA Officials Discuss Parkway Ramp Changes with Greenbriar Residents

by Mavis Fletcher

The October 6 meeting of the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee was combined with a Greenbriar homeowners meeting to hear plans for changing the ramps connecting Greenbelt Road with the northbound lanes of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. In the plan presented, the existing ramps on and off the Parkway which intersect Greenbelt Road at the entrance to Greenway Shopping Center will be closed and new on/off ramps will be built about 600 ft. east. This new intersection will be roughly half-way between the Greenway Center entrance and the intersection of Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road.

According to Edward Jankiewicz of the Prince Georges County Public Works Department, the ramps are being changed to provide improved access to the Parkway, particularly to provide additional storage space for cars exiting from the Parkway so that fewer backups on the northbound lanes will occur. (See map)

Taking Greenbriar Land

Most of the land needed for construction of the ramps is already owned by the county, the State Highway Administration or the federal government. However, a letter from the SHA dated Sept. 26 notified Greenbriar homeowners that the SHA intends to acquire two small parcels of land owned by the Greenbriar Recreational Association, Inc. in order to complete the right-of-way. One of the parcels lies west of the tennis courts behind the pool and consists of slightly more than one-half acre (22,885 sq. ft.). The other parcel lies at the intersection of Greenbelt Road and Hanover Parkway where the SHA is seeking a revertible easement of 3,158 sq. ft. in front of the sign which bears the Greenbriar name. Within this easement the SHA will actually acquire 51 sq. ft. at the corner. The rest of the land will remain the property of Greenbriar but can be used during the construction as needed, according to Jankiewicz.

In the letter of Sept. 26, the SHA offered $55,050 for the land.

Greenbriar Concerns

Greenbriar residents expressed most concern about the proximity of the ramps to the tennis courts and swimming pool. Jankiewicz said the on-ramp to the Parkway would come to within 25 feet of the tennis court at the closest point. The swale along the ramp would be within 10 feet. However, the ramp will lie about 12 ft. below the level of the tennis courts.

Residents were also worried about the impact on the swimming pool by the noise and pollution from the cars on the ramps. Some of those present expressed the opinion that the community ought to be given "mitigating damages" for the impact of the ramps on the recreation facilities. Some residents also questioned the adequacy of the amount being offered for the land.

Three Lights in a Row

A traffic light will be installed where the new ramps join Greenbelt Road while the present light at the entrance of Greenway Center will not be removed. There will be three traffic lights within approximately 1125 feet. on Greenbelt Road. Jankiewicz assured the residents that the lights would be synchronized to minimize the impact on drivers on Greenbelt Road.

For a negotiated settlement, two-thirds of the homeowners must agree to the acquisition.

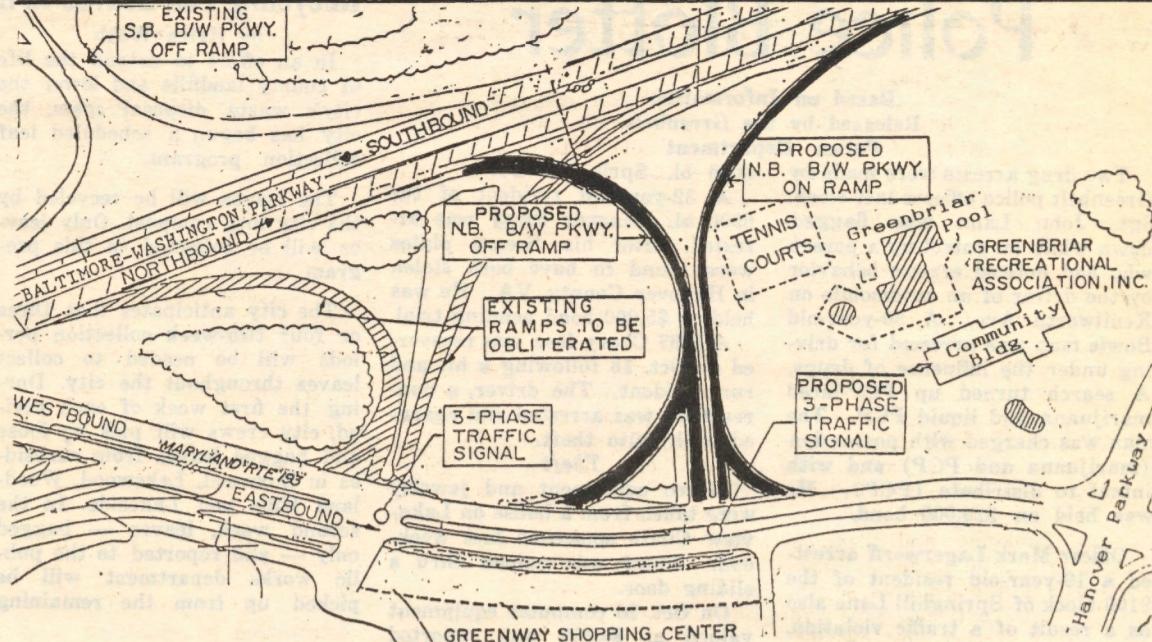

If no agreement is reached, the SHA can post an amount equal to the appraised value of the land with the circuit court and then proceed with the project. Condemnation proceeding would then follow.

J Davis, a Greenbriar resident, objected to this procedure, saying that the community should get the plans in writing (including such features as tree buffers) before it has to commit itself.

Steve Bubb, president of Condominium Ventures, Inc., the firm which manages Greenbriar condominiums also said that the time frame was very short, since they had only heard about the offer on Sept. 19.

Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, who attended the meeting, indicated that the city might be able to help Greenbriar residents get more time to make their decision. The SHA letter does not specify any deadline for the homeowners to approve the settlement. Shelby Hicks of the SHA later told the News Review that filing with the circuit court was already underway when the meeting was held. However, she emphasized that negotiations with the homeowners to achieve a settlement would continue even after the money was posted in court.

No date has been set for the beginning of construction. The SHA letter states that work may begin as early as December. At the meeting Jankiewicz said that he estimated that construction might not start until February.

The drawing shows the proposed change in the on and off ramps connecting the northbound lanes of the Baltimore Washington Parkway to Greenbelt Road (Maryland Rte. 193). The new ramps will be about midway between the old ramps and Hanover Parkway. The old ramps will be closed. Based on a preliminary design study drawing furnished by Hurst-Rosche Engineers, Inc. (Not to scale).

What Is Tartar?

Tartar (calculus) forms on the teeth when plaque becomes calcified. Plaque is soft and easily removed from the surface of the teeth with proper brushing and flossing. Tartar can only be removed by a dentist or hygienist using specially designed instruments.

If allowed to remain for an extended period of time, tartar causes gum recession along with loss of bone which supports the teeth. In extreme cases, teeth must be removed due to looseness and infection which can not be treated.

Periodic treatment by your dentist can remove the tartar deposit, but the damage done can not be reversed. Thorough cleaning of the mouth on a daily basis is the only means of preventing the harmful effects of tartar.

Recycling Fall Leaves In the City and at Home

by Helen Webb

In an effort to extend the life of county landfills and lower the city's waste disposal costs, the city has begun a scheduled leaf collection program.

The leaves will be recycled by the city into compost. Only leaves will be collected in this program.

The city anticipates that three or four two-week collection periods will be needed to collect leaves throughout the city. During the first week of each period, city crews will pick up loose and bagged leaves from curbsides in Boxwood, Lakewood, Woodland Hills and Lakeside. In the second week, leaves — bagged only — and reported to the public works department will be picked up from the remaining areas of the city. It is important the city be notified of leaves to be picked up, because leaves picked up as special trash or with regular trash collection will not be recycled.

The News Review and cable channel B-10 will have information about the leaf-collection schedule throughout the fall.

The city's horticulturist Bill Phelan encourages homeowners to recycle leaves and other yard clippings with their own compost piles. Home-made compost, according to County Extension Agent Bob Stewart, is better than commercial soil conditioner.

Simple compost piles can be made by heaping organic material in a pile and letting it rot for about a year. Or for those in a hurry, an organized compost bin can produce usable compost in about a month.

To create a compost bin, use wire to surround an area with walls about four feet high. Then pile leaves, kitchen scraps and grass clippings into an eight-inch layer. Top this layer with an inch of garden soil. Next, spread some garden fertilizer over the pile and moisten it. Repeat this process several times. When the compost pile reaches the top of the bin, cover it with a plastic sheet.

After two weeks, remove the sheet and fold material on the outside of the pile to the inside for more even composting. The pile should be allowed to compost for two more weeks.

Stewart will present a seminar on composting on November 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hyattsville library.

New Waste Disposal Means Are Considered by County

by Helen Webb

The Prince Georges County Department of Environmental Resources is proposing a solid waste disposal plan that includes recycling, landfilling, and a $166.7 million waste-to-energy incineration plant. The county administration predicts that the plan would take care of the county's waste disposal needs until 2015. However, stiff opposition to the incinerator may cause some aspects of the plan to be changed before the county council makes a final decision about the direction waste management in Prince Georges County will take.

Currently, 99% of all solid waste is being buried at the county's landfills at Brown Station Road and at Sandy Hill. If landfilling continues at this rate, both facilities are predicted to last only until 2002. To make the current landfills last longer, the county has begun efforts to encourage recycling. The county believes that 30 to 35 percent of all waste generated in the county can be recycled.

Recycling Programs

Greenbelt and several other communities in the county have recycling programs. In addition, a 7000-home pilot program has been started by the county, and there are several local businesses that collect aluminum and other metals. In Greenbelt, between six and seven tons of newspapers are collected by city crews each week for recycling, indicating that most people recycle newspapers. However, few Greenbelters take advantage of the newly-remodeled recycling facility located near the public works building at the Buddy Attick (Lake) Park, which accepts newspaper, glass, aluminum and waste oil. Currently, only two or three pounds of glass is recycled per household per year in Greenbelt.

The total amount of recycling currently possible is limited by the small number of companies which exist to process recycled materials. Also, there is a current shortage of companies which collect recyclables.

The county government's goal of recycling 35 percent of the waste stream is far above the state goals of 15 percent by 1994. To meet this goal, the county plans to increase the number of recycling processing centers available to county residents to separately collect and compost yard waste and leaves; to have separate curbside pickup of recyclables; to encourage recycling by apartment dwellers and businesses; and to develop a heavy appliance recycling program. According to Karen Napolitano of the Department of Environmental Resources, "a major education program must also be developed." Napolitano is working with the Apartment and Office Building Association and with various apartment complexes to develop feasible recycling programs, but the high mobility rate of apartment dwellers makes their education especially difficult.

Incinerator

The county administration has proposed the construction of a 1500-ton-per-day waste-to-energy incinerator to dispose of 50 percent of the waste that cannot be recycled. The remaining 15 to 20 percent of the county's waste would be landfilled. The administration favors building the incinerator at Brown Station Road, where the county owns 1300 acres of land, because the site meets the county's economic and environmental screening criteria. Although the initial price of the incinerator is quite high, the administration believes that, over a 20-year period, the incinerator will be more economical than landfilling. The county projects that by 1997 the cost of landfilling and incineration will be equal, and that by 2011 it will cost $60 per ton of waste to landfill, versus $40 per ton to incinerate. Additionally, the incinerator is predicted to generate $7.6 million worth of electricity a year.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW Thursday, October 27, 1988

Our Neighbors

by Dorrie Bates, 345-5961

Best wishes for a speedy recovery to News Review staffer James Coleman who is home recovering from surgery.

The Eleanor Roosevelt High School PTA has received $300 from the Education Support Advisory Council. The group is cited for its contribution to the educational system.

Army Sergeant John T. Lee is busily involved in an international military venture in Mons, Belgium, home of the Supreme Headquarters of Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE). Lee is an administrative specialist for the NATO-SHAPE Support Group and works alongside representatives from 14 other countries in the NATO alliance.

Lee has had some once in a lifetime experiences in the few months he's been in Mons. "I've been able to meet President Reagan and the Secretaries of State and Defense . . . Our unit is solely responsible for supporting their arrivals, stays and departures from Belgium."

Lee is the son of Margaret and step-son of Leonard S. Jordan who live on Edmonston Road. He and his wife, Willa, have a daughter, Patrice.

And a tip of the hat to Wanda Dietrich from Greenbelt. An elementary school teacher, Wanda volunteered her time over the summer to give some students a bit of a head start with computers (which are now found in all second and third grade classrooms). Wanda and her fellow volunteers were featured in a recent Journal article on the program.

Paul (left) and Truman (right) Sinkovic receive a Proclamation declaring October to be "Lupus Awareness Month" from County Executive Parris Glendening. Lupus is a chronic disease that affects over a half million Americans. The Sinkovics, residents of Greenbriar, are active members of the Lupus Foundation. A seminar on Lupus will be held on Saturday, Oct. 29 in Baltimore. For information, call (301) 366-7272.

County Residents Participate In National Health Survey

A six-year nationwide study of the health and nutritional status of Americans is taking place in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties according to Dr. Robert E. Windom, assistant secretary for health. Maryland residents who volunteer after being randomly selected will undergo extensive physical examinations and respond to questions on health-related issues.

The National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES III) is designed to learn more about and prevent such major diseases as heart disease, hypertension and diabetes. The survey will gather information on the dietary habits and nutritional status of Americans and on their blood pressure, serum cholesterol, height, weight, and other physiological and body measurements. The extent of asthma, liver disease, arthritis and other major chronic conditions also will be measured.

Before the survey ends in 1994, about 40,000 people living in 88 communities across the country will have been asked to participate. In Prince Georges and Montgomery counties some 600 individuals are expected to take part in the survey which includes an interview in the household about health and dietary habits and a standardized physical examination given in a specially designed mobile examination center.

Personal interviews include detailed questions on physical activity, medical history, diet and other health concerns. Physical examinations include a medical and dental examination, physiological and body measurements, and laboratory tests. The National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey will be conducted in this area through November.

The mobile examination center, located in College Park, is staffed by a team of health personnel, including a physician, dentist, nutritionists, and health and laboratory technicians. Interviewers calling on Prince Georges and Montgomery County residents will display official government identification. Participation in the survey is strictly voluntary and all information collected is confidential.

The National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey is being conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics. NCHS is the federal government's principal health statistics agency and is part of the Centers for Disease Control, U.S. Public Health Service.

SENIORS' SOFTBALL

by Jerry Conway

The Greenbelt senior citizen Slow Pitch Softball Team enjoyed an exciting and fun-filled softball game and picnic at a Howard County Recreation Center in honor of their anniversary. The Green Belters were invited by Howard County's senior citizens to participate in this fun-filled event because of our social and sportsmanship characteristics which would add to the enjoyment of the celebration. Playing on a fenceless field provided the Green Belters with opportunities for hitting home runs,

GHI Board

"not even close to being unanimous" in the court. (The board has allowed exceptions to the parking policy in two cases; in both cases the change had the unanimous support of the members in the courts).

On another parking matter, the board voted unanimously to designate the 10 recently constructed parking spaces in the 10 Court of Southway as visitors spaces to be shared by the 8, 10, and 11 Courts of Southway.

The board discussed screening for electric meter panels mounted on the end of each row of frame homes and on the masonry duplex units. The board made no decision but asked the staff to come back with costs and plans for screening.

The board took no action on a Finance Committee recommendation that the corporation counsel be asked to interpret a by-laws provision governing "what information or records are or are not available to the membership on request." According to the discussion, the recommendation was occasioned by a request from a member for information about the salary of specific employees. By taking no action, the board adhered to its policy of not revealing specific salary figures for individual employees.

Meeting Dates

To avoid conflicts with the holidays, the board will meet on Nov. 3 and 17 and on Dec. 1 and 15. In addition to the membership hearing on the budget on Nov. 1, the budget is scheduled to be discussed at the meeting on Nov. 3 with the first reading scheduled for Nov. 17 and second reading on Dec. 1.
